

I feel that it would be an invasion of privacy to allow unsolicited business to contact people without their expressed interest. If I really wanted to talk to any of these people, I would call them myself; they don't need to call me at all hours wasting my time.